In 1920 Albert Einstein invented a pant gun that when used turns people into pants when they get covered by pants. He started off by just turning people that didn't buy his pants into pants (or his employees who didn't make enough pants.); he had his pant underlings find dissenters and give them to him. Doing this he made many enemies and got Tim Nis to protect him. But then he had an idea and so in 1924 he used his pant army to oust Calvin Coolidge from office and become president himself. He then used his pant army to become world leader on January 1st 1929 but he wasn't done he started to invade alien planets the aliens fought back with a ufo gun but all their soldiers were being turned into pants Albert sent a giant lazer pant called Super Pant #1. In all the chaos baja california revolted and left Earth for the Baja California planet but Albert was ready and sent a massive pant known as Super Pant #2 and the Death Pant Squadren (leader Tim Nis) to destroy the Baja California planet. Also the Aliens planet has barely any land so he built a massive pant navy and turned 1/2 of the sea creatures into pants so he could sell the pants to the sea creatures that were not turned into pants and make that $$$$$. The massive super-stores he used to sell them were named "Old Navy" after the boats with the extra large pant guns used to supply and defend them. Albert assigned directors to each of the stores. Eventually, they tired of his rule and revolted (Lead by James Alkerfield), possibly urged and helped by Albert Einstein's archnemesis, Niels Bohr who still denies any involvement to this day, causing a bloody civil war. Albert Einstein started out winning, and had nearly defeated the Managers at the battle of Old Navy 7297493, which was a critical naval base and their last remaining stronghold. Their massive navy was the only thing keeping them alive. Albert had already managed to breach the jeans department when Baja California swooped in to their rescue, because Baja California still had a grudge against Albert Einstein. As it turned out, Baja California had managed to take over the massive pant laser used to destroy its home and attacked Einstein with a Baja blast. Tim Nis and a few other Death Pant squadron members managed to get into escape pods and escape. With the power of Super pant #2, Albert Einstein's forces surrendered and he was forced to go into hiding. However, he started an underground cult named S.W.E.A.T.P.A.N.T.S. to reassert his dominance at a later date. He also started to research Pantonium, a material used to make a fission reaction between panticles, the pant shaped particles of the quantum world. It could unleash massive amounts of energy if used carelessly.Baja California then left to rebuild its home planet leaving a power vacuum. This power vacuum was filled with many small states and volatile alliances; eventually three powers emerged:Old Navy, Super-cats (Schroginger), and one whose name is uncertain (Heinsinburg). These two through bloody conquest destroyed many states like Byzantium (sorry Mehmed VI), Gestwert, Fishyl, and also kept the aliens at bay. They then teamed up to hopefully defeat the aliens once and for all.